
Jobs, Jobs, Jobs...

On Monday, Aug. 16, I'll be partnering with my fellow Lebanon County legislators to host a free job fair from 4-7 p.m. at the Lebanon Valley Expo Center, North Hall, 80 Rocherty Road.

More than 40 employers have registered for the event in search of candidates seeking full- or part-time employment. Interested employers represent local school districts and health care companies, as well as the food production, local government and construction industries.

This is a great opportunity for the many people who are still trying to find employment after the governor forced business closures across the state as part of his response to the pandemic. Having so many employers who are looking to hire in one place will make a convenient job search opportunity.

If you plan to attend, please note you do NOT need to register in advance.
